Countries represented in the study	World, Italy
Summary of study/report	The report tracks a profile of the global jihadist threat, also examining the operational repercussions on local level (italy). The second part of the study is devoted to an aspect often overlooked in the Italian debate: prevention
Key findings	CVE obstacles
Conclusions of review	While most European countries have invested important resources in developing policies to prevent radicalization or to de-radicalize those who adopt extremist ideas and behavior, there is no trace of this approach in Italy except in some timid discussion between insiders.
